MID-AUTUMN MOON FESTIVAL

This year marks Los Angeles Chinatown's 79th Annual Moon Festival. The first Mid-Autumn Moon Festival was held in Los Angeles Chinatown in 1938. It was both a celebration of the traditional Chinese holiday as well as a fundraiser benefitting United China Relief to provide aid for victims of the Sino-Japanese War in China. The first Moon Festivals were attended by celebrities such as Anna May Wong and Clark Gable, and also included a beauty pageant. Today's Moon Festival celebration in Chinatown draws on the traditions of ancient China as well as the early days of Chinatown.

Join us on October 7th in Central and Mandarin Plazas for displays of traditional Chinese culture through music, folk arts, and cuisine, local Angeleno bands, a vintage and craft market place, as well as a performing Capuchin monkey - a throwback to one of "New Chinatown's" original attractions.
